

In Science, we've been looking at Light.

We used puppets to investigate how shadows change their shape, size and direction depending on their distance from a source of light and the angle of the source.

We also investigated the visible spectrum

We used water and CDs to split up the white light from our light source (a torch) to form a spectrum.

The light waves are refracted as they enter and leave the CD.

